In recent times, there are a multitude of products that are supposed to enable you to discontinue smoking. The thing is, it is never easy to tell fact from fiction. Most products may just be scams designed to get your money and capitalize on the excruciating difficulty of trying to quit smoking without some help.

Cigarrest is one of the oldest options in this expanding market. Though Cigarrest has persisted for many years, the brand couldnt quite to evade the controversy that surrounds it. In the succeeding paragraphs, we will answer your questions about Cigarrest to the best of our ability to help you reach an informed choice about the smoking cessation aid market.

Firstly, let us enumerate the claims made by Cigarrest and its manufacturers. Similar to most programs out there, the Cigarrest product provides a natural therapy for the symptoms of withdrawal. Cigarrest comes in many forms, such as lozenges, pills, and gums, which all consist of natural extracts, antioxidants, and vitamins. The combination of these ingredients helps relieve anxiety, stomach disorders, irritability, respiratory conditions, and other symptoms. Plus, these ingredients supposedly create a distaste for cigarette smoke, thus motivating you to keep away from smoking cigarette.

In more than twenty years since it became available in the market, the brands official website states that it has demonstrated no major side effects, save for the typical nicotine withdrawal effects (e.g. dry mouth, dizziness or nausea, tingling or tremors in the hands & feet, coughs, among others). The Cigarrest official website looks informative and well laid out, which is a sharp contrast to the web pages of other products of its kind that offer unsatisfactory descriptions of what theyre selling and associated risks.

In this article, we have to highlight the fact that general response about Cigarrest is greatly discordant. Because of the continuing debate, its a wonder how this product survived the market for a considerable time. Although a number of individuals swear to Cigarrests effectiveness, a good number of individuals still maintain theyve been cheated.

Because the Cigarrest brand is available in specialty websites and other web haunts, several individuals question the brands integrity and advise people to refrain from procuring Cigarrests products. Its still possible that the longevity and popularity of the brand have generated numerous satellite industries that are attempting to take advantage of the brands good name and hence duping countless users. On the other hand, until there is any proof to this, you are advised to stay vigilant.

The products age and popularity may sound favorable to a lot of users, but we encourage you to always consider the issues involved prior to buying this quit smoking aid product. More importantly, do stay away from possible scams as well as cunning sites that only intend to cheat you.
